JOE'S DREAM

Joe is in his secret tree house in the woods. He's reading a book. It's "Peter Pan and Wendy". He soon falls asleep and has a dream.

Peter Pan: Hello, I'm Peter Pan. What's your name?

Joe: (surprised) Oh, hello ... I'm Joe.

Peter Pan: Come to dinner at my house, Joe.

Joe: Thank you, Peter Pan, but...

Peter Pan: We eat dinner in the bathroom.

Joe: (surprised) IN THE BATHROOM?

Peter Pan: Yes.

Joe: Why do you do that? We eat dinner in the dining room.

Peter Pan: (laughing) We sleep in the dining room.

Joe: (surprised) YOU SLEEP IN THE DINING ROOM? Why do you do that? We sleep in the bedroom.

Peter Pan: (laughing) We cook in the bedroom.

Joe: (surprised) YOU COOK IN THE BEDROOM? Why do you do that? We cook in the kitchen.

Peter Pan: (laughing) We play in the kitchen.

Joe: (surprised) YOU PLAY IN THE KITCHEN? Why do you do that? We play in the garden.

Peter Pan: (laughing) We have a bath in the garden.

Joe: (surprised) YOU HAVE A BATH IN THE GARDEN? Why do you do that? We have a bath in the bathroom.

Peter Pan (one arm over Joe's shoulder): I like you, Joe. You're so different. Let's go!

Joe: (waking up, speaking to himself) Oops! It's time for dinner!

Joe's dad: Come quickly, Joe. Dinner is ready!

Joe: (relieved that everything seems to be back to normal) I'm coming, Dad! I'm so hungry!
